The 2011 NEPA GiveCamp

We're proud to announce that the NEPA GiveCamp will be held in Northeastern Pennsylvania on January 14th-16th at Misericordia University in Dallas, Pennsylvania. We have opened up registration for volunteers (technical and non-technical), charities, and sponsors.

What is a GiveCamp?

A GiveCamp is a weekend-long event where software developers, designers, and database administrators donate their time to create custom software for non-profit organizations. This custom software could be a new website for the nonprofit organization, a small data-collection application to keep track of members, or a application for the Red Cross that automatically emails a blood donor three months after they've donated blood to remind them that they are now eligible to donate again. The only limitation is that the project should be scoped to be able to be completed in a weekend.

If you are not a developer, designer, database administrator, business owner, or charity, we can still use your help. Be sure to check out our website to find out more about how you can help.

Sounds good. Where do I begin?

Start by visiting our website for sign up information and frequently asked questions. There you will find lots of information about the 2011 NEPA GiveCamp event. If you are not in Northeastern Pennsylvania, visit the national GiveCamp website at givecamp.org to find a location near you.
